THOS. J. BIGSTAFF

The New President of the Kentucky Farmers Institute.

A real farmer of the modern kind, who knows the value of science in developing stock and products of the soil, is the president of the Farmers Institute of Kentucky, Thomas Jones Bigstaff, of Mt. Sterling, is a breeder of fine stock and is a farmer because he loves the life of the farm. He is a lawyer of ability and practices in the Montgomery and other Circuit Courts, but his heart is in his farm-work and it is there he really enjoys life. He was born on a farm and began farming when a boy. Even then he took an interest in fine cattle and his father, who had some hundreds of the best blooded short-horns, let him superintend the breeding. For some years after he was grown, Mr. Bigstaff quit actual farming, devoting himself to law, but the lure of the farm was too great and he went back to it until now it takes most of his time and he has grown wealthy by the modern methods he has used.

Mr. Bigstaff was born near Mt. Sterling. His father was a successful farmer and a more successful stock raiser. In those days the fair was the big event of the year and more attention was paid to cattle than at present. Young Bigstaff took his father's herd of short-horns to the various fairs in Kentucky and won many blue ribbons. He loved cows and calves, especially the latter, and took great pride in their appearance. Later in life Mr. Bigstaff went to college at Georgetown, where he was graduated in 1884. He then took a course in business in a commercial school with the idea of becoming a banker. But he found the life too confining and his health would not permit him working too closely in an office. He needed the outdoor air and free life of a farm. He then took up law and made a success of it, but in the last few years he has devoted most of his time to his farm. He is a busy man, between attending to his farm interests and his law business, both of which are extensive.

Mr. Bigstaff makes a specialty of raising fine stock of all kinds. He has a fine breed of hackney horses, fine pigs, fine sheep, and nothing on his farm is of the scrub variety. He himself is a thoroughbred.—Frankfort Correspondent in Courier-Journal.

WANTED WOMEN KILLED

And Danville Man Is Arrested and Adjudged a Lunatic.

James Stout, a wealthy young man, of Danville, Ky., who had sworn vengeance on the women of Danville, was arrested, tried and adjudged a lunatic.

Although a revolver was found in his room, he was not armed at the time the arrest was made. He and his brother for years have lived together, one occupying the first and the other the second floor. Neither is married.

His rooms were bedded in straw like stalls in livery stables, and he had a large supply of cigar stubs and cigarette "saipes" which he had picked up on the streets.

Although Stout had been under surveillance of the officers for several weeks, the immediate cause of his arrest was a letter directed to the Chief of Police of Columbus, Ohio.

The officers at Danville were notified by the police of Columbus. In the letter Stout asked that 100 policemen and 500 mounted officers all bearing double-barreled shot-guns be dispatched to Danville. He desired to take command of the forces and shoot down every woman in Danville until the streets should flow with their blood.

When the officers entered his room they remarked to him that his soldiers had arrived, and that they were ready to begin their war on the women of Danville, and asked him if he was ready. He responded in the affirmative, and gladly accompanied the officers to await the men from Columbus. Stout is a graduate of Centre College. Only recently he returned to Danville from San Francisco, where he had been since his escape several months ago, when he fled into several trains on the Q. & C. Route.

Wilson Opens Ranges.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson solicited of securing the fullest utilization of the range resources of the national forests, has decided to permit 1,957,000 cattle and horses and 8,325,000 sheep and goats to graze on the reservations during the coming season. Compared with last year, this will be an increase of 200,000 cattle and horses and 500,000 sheep and goats.

.$100,000,000

Is Wasted Annually So Asserts Senator Aldrich.

Senator Aldrich said that if permitted to do so he would undertake to run the government of the United States for $100,000,000 a year less than it now costs. He was not presenting a formal proposition, but was making a speech to the Senate on his bill providing for the creation of a commission to reform the business methods of the government.

He pleaded earnestly for the commission, saying that the present methods were obsolete and involved the annual loss of at least $100,000,000 a year. At his instance the bill was so amended as to provide that the commission should be composed entirely of members of Congress, five Senators and five members of the House.

ANSWERS SENATOR DOLLIVER.

Mr. Aldrich spoke in response to Senator Dolliver who opposed the bill on the ground that it would create suspicion in the minds of the public as to the methods of conducting the government's business.

Mr. Dolliver said he feared the commission would accomplish no good but much evil. He regarded the bill as a proposition to enter upon "a blanket disparagement of the government."

In his speech Mr. Aldrich said he did not desire to serve on the proposed commission.

SAYS WORK IS DUPLICATED.

He spoke at length of the duplication of the work of the various departments. He did not doubt that 10 per cent of the present expenditures could be saved by a commission. Mr. Money regarded as most serious Mr. Aldrich's admission that $100,000,000 a year was being wasted by maladministration. He agreed there should be commissions, but did not believe it should be composed of members of Congress, for he had little faith in mixed commissions. The bill was not acted upon.

Will Offer Again for Congress.

A Frankfort special says that Campbell Cantrill will be a candidate for Congress to succeed himself. Mr. Cantrill has worked hard for the interests of his constituents and has succeeded in making many strong friends, who were opposed to him two years ago.

Some weeks ago the friends of former Congressman South Trimble almost persuaded him to make the race against Cantrill, but it is conceded now that he will not enter the race.

Senator C. M. Thomas, of Bourbon, and W. P. Kimball, of Fayette, are regarded as probable candidates.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

For School Trustees and Other School Officers.

The following act has attracted considerable attention and is now before the Kentucky Legislature.

An Act qualifying and enabling women to vote for the election of School Trustees and other School Officers chosen by the people, except such officers as women may be disqualified from voting for by the Constitution, and upon school measures or questions submitted to a vote of the people, and to hold common school offices, except such offices as women are disqualified from holding by the Constitution.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

SECTION 1. That all women possessing the legal qualifications required of male voters in any common school election, and who in addition are able to read and write, shall be qualified and entitled to vote at all elections of school trustees and other school officers required to be elected by the people, and upon all school measures or questions submitted to a vote of the people; and women possessing the legal qualifications required as to males shall be eligible to hold any school office or office pertaining to the management of schools; Provided, however, that this Act shall not apply to any election the qualifications of the voter at which are otherwise prescribed by the Constitution, nor to any office as to which the Constitution otherwise prescribes the qualifications of the persons eligible thereto.

Sec. 2. In all places where a registration of the qualified voters is now or may hereafter be required women who are, by this Act, qualified to vote shall be registered at the same time and place and by the same officers and in the same manner as male voters; their registration, however, being made in a separate book to be furnished by the County Clerk as is prescribed by law in the case of male voters. And all the provisions of law relating to the registration of male voters are hereby made applicable to the registration of women qualified to vote by this Act.

Sec. 3. When the elections referred to in Section 1 of this Act are held on the same day with the State, County or City elections, separate ballots, similar to those required in other elections, except that they contain only the names of candidates for school officers or questions relating to schools, shall be provided for women voters qualified under this Act; otherwise the election shall be held according to the provisions of the general election law.

Sec. 4. All laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

DESTITUTE MOTHER

Used Money And Told Owner the Find Was A "Godsend."

A most pathetic case of destitution and illiteracy was revealed at Tompkinsville, Ky., on March 1, when Green Graves found his pocketbook in the possession of Mrs. America Page, a widow.

When Mr. Graves lost the pocketbook it contained $135. Mrs. Page returned only $75, and when questioned, said:

"I have five helpless children to support. The eldest child found the pocketbook and brought it to me. I could not read and did not know how much money there was in it. I had no way of telling to whom it belonged, but I knew that the winter had been long and cold and that my children were in need of food and clothing. So I spent all but what you see."

She denied any knowledge of a law that required a person to advertise when finding other people's property.

Those who heard her simple story were impressed that she really intended no wrong, but rather looked on the finding of the money as a "Godsend" to her to care for her little children, the task being a hard one for able-bodied men, much less a woman.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all dealers. m.

Imprison Idle Rich.

The idle rich as well as the idle poor come under the provisions of a bill introduced by Delegate John A. Garrett in the Maryland House of Delegates. The measure provides stringent penalties for vagrancy and defines various classes of the offense. The bill fixes the penalties at from ten days to three months in the house of correction.

A salient feature of the proposed law is that which defines as vagrants not only the specimen commonly known as the tramp, but any person who leads an idle and immoral life, who is not engaged in some useful and reputable occupation, or who spends his time around the railroad station, the steamboat wharf, the poolroom or the village store.

Accidents will happen but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts. m.

LINCOLN INSTITUTE.

The House of Representatives of the Kentucky General Assembly has passed the Holland bill, which practically shuts out of Kentucky the proposed Lincoln Institute, the normal and industrial school for colored people to be established in Shelby county under the auspices of Berea College. The bill provides that no such training school or farm occupying over 75 acres of land shall be established in any precinct in the State without first securing the consent of the citizens at a special election, which in view of the existing race prejudice would be fatal to Lincoln Institute or any other colored industrial farm on a big scale.

We believe that such an industrial school as Lincoln Institute would be regarded as an important asset to Shelby county rather than a drawback and it is to be hoped that a passing wave of prejudice will not be permitted to cripple this splendid institute in embryo.

Lincoln Institute will own nearly 500 acres of land. Such an institution, with its attractive structures, and grounds, a distinguished body of educators and business men to manage its affairs, an excellent prospect of an increasing endowment, ought to be a desirable addition to any county.

We sincerely hope that the Senate will rise above miserable race prejudice when the Holland bill comes before it.

Kentucky ought to welcome Lincoln Institute instead of throwing obstacles in its way.—Lexington Leader.

DANCERS PAY THE FIDDLER

In this issue appears two new ordinances of the City. One prohibits the selling or otherwise furnishing of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors to any person while in custody of the City Warden, or while serving a sentence under a judgment of the Police Court; and for violation of such ordinance a fine of from $5 to $50 is imposed for each offense; the other specifies certain amounts to be taxed as costs against a defendant upon all judgments for violation of city ordinances, viz: $1 Judge's fee, for benefit of city; 50 cents for officer making arrest, and 50 cents per day for board.

Carefully read.

WOMEN VOTERS.

For the information and convenience of our women readers we suggest that they clip from this issue: "Woman Suffrage For School Trustees etc." The privilege thus to vote may and should be conferred upon them by the present Legislature.

Editors and loafers should read "Imprison Idle Rich."

THE COUNTY UNIT: A SUGGESTION.

Why should the enemies of liquor longer plead with the Senate of Kentucky for the county unit bill? It is a waste of time, being wholly unnecessary. We need nothing but an appeal to the courts to secure the county unit measure. Do you doubt? Then please observe the following facts:

First—The Constitution of the State says that the Legislature shall enact a law by which the people of any county of the State can vote on the question of saloons or no saloons. The mandate of the Constitution is specific.

Second—The Legislature has passed a county unit bill, from the workings of which, however, they exempt such counties as contain cities of the first, second, third and fourth class.

Now, it is manifest that the law enacting the county unit is constitutional. But it is equally clear that to exempt any county or counties from the operations of this law is unconstitutional.

WHAT MUST WE DO?

Simply get up your petition for a county election. When the court refuses to order it on the ground that there are cities in your county of such class as exempt them from the operation of the law that makes the exception in favor of liquor by exempting said city.

The constitution is specific. It says that the law shall allow a vote in "any" county. It is certain that this provision of this constitution is violated by limitations placed on the law.

Knock out the exceptions in the law as it already exists, because they are a contravention of the constitution, and we have that for which we have pleaded unavailingly with a liquor-oriented Senate for years, viz., the unlimited county unit bill.

Where shall the test be made? Let us hear from the friends of prohibition, of Home vs. Saloon.—L. L. Pickett, Wilmore, Ky.

IS THIS USUAL?

The electric lighting company of Lexington 18 months ago VOLUNTARILY reduced their rates 10%, soon another cut of 10% was made from a basis of 18 cents per 1000 kilowatt hours; less 20% the cost was 14.4. On April 1 another VOLUNTARY reduction will be made to 13½c.

The "machine" smasher has "hollered nuff." We will now turn from "over the hill to the Poor House" and get stuck in the mud on our pikes which have the bottom knocked out.

FACTS & OBSERVATIONS

Trip on Interurban to Frankfort to See the Legislature, Capitol and Other Curios.

On Monday afternoon the writer, his wife and sister, Miss Ella Trimble, left Lexington at 2 o'clock on the interurban via Versailles to Frankfort, a distance of 28 miles, time 1½ hours, fare 65c. We passed through some of the asparagus bed of the garden spot of the world. Approaching Versailles we passed the home of Mr. Jno. T. Gray and wife (nee Bridgeforth). This had special interest because a Montgomery county daughter is queen.

A car leaves Lexington every hour, hence four crews are necessary. Our conductor, Mr. Farrow, was very cordial and explanatory. On his first trip out of Lexington that morning he handled 90 passengers between Lexington and Versailles and 70 between Versailles and Frankfort (Court-day.) On our train the haul was 57 to Versailles and 19 to Frankfort. The freight and parcel receipts are extensive and growing.

The novelty of such a ride should catch many passengers—pleasure, sight-seeing. This was our longest ride in Kentucky on an electric road. Try it and you will be charmed if your trip will be as pleasant as ours. This is a complimentary notice, as we paid regular fare. We had no special permit. Some people think that editors pay for nothing, and seldom tell the truth. We don't yet stand in with all the high railway and electric officials. We will boost them now and then.

GLENN AVERY.

What's that? The palatial country residence of Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, visible from and convenient to this electric road. This was our first sight. Thanks to the conductor. We thought of the Judge.

THE CAPITOL.

Every Kentuckian should see the new Capitol building. Our most extravagant and descriptive phrases could not do justice. It must be seen and studied. Even a bird's eye view is enrapturing. The writer notified Mrs. Sue Godsey Polk of our presence in the city and she was with us. Mr. George A. Lewis, custodian of the building and grounds, was very gracious and accommodating.

He is a bureau of information. If what we received is a fair sample, he is THE man for the place. We had time to see only a few offices and departments. The House was not in session. We sat in the Senate gallery and heard Finley Fogg, Prison Commissioner, address the Senate to secure further appropriation for the Reform School. The Legislature adjourns on the 15th.

Howe and Johnson Insurance Case Reversed.

The Court of Appeals on yesterday reversed the judgment of the Montgomery Circuit Court in the cases of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S., vs. J. G. Griffin and Johnson and J. G. Griffin, as Executor of C. W. Howe, deceased. Many years ago several large policies of insurance were issued upon the life of Morris Griffin, with Howe and Johnson as beneficiaries. After the death of Griffin and payment of policies, the Company sued, claiming fraud in the procurement of the policies, etc. This is the third suit over the same policies to reach the Court of Appeals. First John Hays, as Administrator of Griffin sued Howe and Johnson; then the children of Griffin sued, Howe and Johnson winning these two cases, and the reversal of this case finally closes the transaction. Mr. Winn, as Executor of Howe, was represented by Attorney Robert H. Winn, and Mr. Johnson by Attorneys W. B. White and E. W. Seiff.

THE ROGERS CO.

INCORPORATED

ERRORS COST MUCH

LARGE SUMS WASTED BY VARIOUS GOVERNMENTS.

For One Misspelled Word 4,000,000 United States Telegraph Blanks Were Destroyed—Kaiser Wilhelm's Editorial Work.

Enormous sums of money are frequently expended by various governments to rectify errors, often appearing trivial, in government printing. The United States, some years ago destroyed 4,000,000 telegraph forms owing to the misspelling of a single word.

In 1883 several hundred thousand greenbacks were canceled before being sent to the same cause. An employee was convicted for attempting to steal some of these worthless notes, with the intention of selling them to collectors.

The Austrian government is so intolerant of mistakes that it cancels documents not only on the ground of serious mistakes or misspelling, but even as the result of a misshapen letter. The use of a small instead of a capital "i" in the word "Biele" led to short time ago to the destruction of 25,000 forms issued to the various post offices.

In 1850 an Austrian designer of bank notes signed his name in tiny letters at the foot of a drawing. The engraver copied the name, and before the mistake was discovered 10,000 notes were printed, all of which had to be burned.

Before the union of Italy, more than one attempt was secretly made to turn official papers and notes to propagandist uses. A custom house register was so altered by the compositor that the initials words in every line, if read consecutively, were a declaration against the papal claim to govern Rome.

In another case the spacing of words in certain bank notes was so arranged that by drawing a pencil line in a particular way a rude outline of the arms of Savoy resulted. These notes, of course, never saw the light, the device being too obvious to escape detection.

In 1901 a Spanish engraver was heard boasting that he had "signed his name" on every one of the 10,000 bank notes just about to be issued. When called on and asked for an explanation, he declared that he had been joking.

But an examination of the notes showed that certain letters in one line were raised a microscopic distance above those next to them.

These raised letters spelled the employee's name. Seven hundred and fifty dollars was the price paid by the authorities for their engravers' joke. The Kaiser's persistent interference in all matters of art has cost the fatherland heavy losses in canceled printed matter. One of his first acts as sovereign was to show his subordinates how the Imperial arms should be printed.

After many thousand forms and documents had been impressed with these arms an antiquary of high authority proved to his majesty that the new design was not only wrong, but also humiliating to himself. Seven thousand five hundred dollars' worth of papers were promptly reduced to ashes.

In another case the Kaiser "sub-edited" the German money order form in such a way that the public could not make head or tail of it. Finally the new form had to be called in and thousands of unused copies destroyed.

Fifteen thousand pounds' worth of postal orders had to be destroyed by the British general post office some time ago owing to the poundage stamped on the face having been increased of 1½d, as it should have been. The estimated loss to the country was $500.

France has been a bad sufferer. In 1885 more than twenty thousand hand-drawn credit notes were printed with a word badly misspelled, the error not being noticed until some of the notes had been issued to banks.—New York Herald.

Kind Man from the Country.

An amusing incident occurred in a hotel a few nights ago. It appears that a farmer from South Jersey, who was unusually ignorant of city ways, went to the hotel with his son. The father retired early, but the son went out to "see the town."

At 12:30 o'clock the farmer went downstairs and inquired of the night clerk if the boy had returned yet. He was told that he had not. The father went back to his room. An hour later he again appeared before the clerk and said:

"Hain't Jack in yet?"

Again he was informed that the lad was out. The old man made several subsequent trips, and still his boy was among the missing. Finally, at 2:30 o'clock, the farmer trudged wearily down the stairs and asked again if his boy had returned.

"No, he's not in yet," replied the night clerk. "Wal, I guess he won't come in, then. Guess you needn't wait up any longer."—Philadelphia Times.

LETTER

From J. C. Coons, in Missouri—Death of Kentuckians.

Near Hallsville, Mo., Feb. 28, '10. Mt. Sterling Ky. Advocate:

Groundhog month out. Two light showers of rain, 8 light snows, about 21 inches all told. Mean temperature, 19 degrees. Peaches alive yet. The ground being frozen so deep, and the cold is here to stay late in the spring, we can reasonably expect a good fruit crop this year. No plowing here yet. First crop of ice on ponds yet. Feed holding out good. Very little mud this winter, consequently stock has wintered well.

DEATHS.

Mr. Josh Potts came to Two Mile Prairie, Boone county, many years ago from Moorefield, Ky., but lives in Centralia now.

BRUTON.—Frank E. Bruton, of Sturgeon, Mo., was buried at Centralia by the Masons and other orders. Fine man. Ex-Councilman and ex-Mayor of Sturgeon, Mo., several years ago. He was a great worker in the church and Sunday School. His wife and son, Frank, Jr., survive him. He was a cousin of Enoch Bruton, of Mt. Sterling, Ky.

PATTON.—Wife of James D. Patton, the great race horse man of Sturgeon, Mo., was buried at Moberly, Mo. Mr. Patton died several years ago. She had no children. She had several hundred acres of land in Sturgeon. Quite a fortune there. The State University of Missouri gets 5 per cent. in cash on all estates where there are no bodily heirs.

KEMPER.—James Kemper shot and killed himself last Friday. He was kind of the Kemper at Mt. Sterling, Ky. All the be-raved families have our sympathy.

Mr. Halley's luminary has not shined out here yet. Some one said it was fooling around over about Louisville, Ky. Sidetracked or wants office, I suppose.

To Cut Plate Glass.

To cut a piece of plate glass it is thought a diamond cutter is necessary, but it is not. If the glass is not very thick it can be cut with a pair of scissors, a large pair being preferable. While cutting hold the glass beneath half a foot or more of water, and it can be cut any shape desired. A round piece of glass has been cut out of a good sized pane in just this manner. The scissors do not have to be extra sharp.—Success.

Waterproof Shingles.

Shingles are now made under a patented process from asbestos fiber as a portland cement. Owing to the enormous pressure under which the shingles are manufactured, it is said that they absorb, when fresh, only about five per cent. of their weight of water; and when exposed to the atmosphere for a year or two that hydration and subsequent crystallization make them absolutely impermeable.

Costly Popularity.

France's cruiser Leon Gambetta is named after the famous politician, who died on December 31, 1882. In the times of his intense popularity Gambetta had an experience which he was wont to tell against himself. In Paris admirers unyoked his horses and dragged the carriage to his house. Gambetta would narrate this with an air of pride, and he would add with a smile: "But I never saw my horse again!"

Modern Man and Charms.

Many a hard-headed business man will stop to pick up a cast horseshoe or a "lucky" farthing, and is not a bit ashamed of the superstition. The man with great satisfaction, comments the London Crown. It is a fact that civilization has not improved so much in relation to our quaint beliefs, and charms and amulets are collectable and interesting curios.

Harm Done by Wrong Food.

A New York skin specialist says: "Had I to choose between the cook and the apothecary as collaborer, I think I would not hesitate for a moment to yoke myself with the former." He goes on to say that "the board kills more than the sword." Many people eat not only the wrong foods, but too much of them.

Flexible Glue.

One part Venetian turpentine added to four parts of glue will make a flexible glue to attach leather to metals, says the Scientific American. The mass is heated in a glue pot until it becomes sticky and no more bubbles appear. A fresh mixture will work best.

Scarcity of Humor.

It is to be feared that if the papers reserved a special corner once each week for the witicism of the week, it would be often left blank. There is no wit to speak of today, only a feeble imitation of it which people are fond of calling the saving sense of humor.—London Saturday Review.

Purer Air.

The injury to commerce and the amenities of life, to say nothing as to the lowering of the vitality of the people, would surely justify some compensation of bounties and penalties to aid in attaining to a higher standard of purity in the air which we breathe.—Lancet.

To Prevent Breaking Glass.

In opening a jar of fruit with a knife always insert the blade between the jar and the rubber. Prying against the thin edge of the cover breaks it out of shape, perhaps ruining it for future use, and is likely to break the glass.

Monday, county court day, was one of the quietest for months. Only two arrests were made. The first was Willie Jackson, colored, for disorderly conduct, and was fined $5.00.

A. S. Hall, a desperado from the mountains, came to attend court. Late in the afternoon he got thoroughly tanked, went to the ladies' waiting room at the Union Station and flourishing his gun ran out all the ladies there. One did not stop until she reached the police station and informed the chief. He was fined $30 and given ten days in jail.

During the month of February 40 arrests were made. This is a slight decrease from January. The revival at the Christian

For Pain in Chest

It's a pity that Mr. Bryan is out of the country. He has a solution for every problem and what I want to know is: How can I get pork chops cheaper and what my butcher have a reasonable profit and my farmer friend get the present high price for his hogs.

There was some question in the minds of certain of our citizens as to whether we would be able to sell $105,000 worth of city hall bonds and sewer bonds at par. And but for the exhibition of the prevalent Winchester spirit we might not have been able to do so without some little difficulty.

Most of the bond buyers of Cincinnati, Chicago and Louisville did not appear at the sale. Only one formal bid was presented. The various houses arrange among themselves the price that shall be bid and one man usually appears at the sale and makes the offer.

But Mr. M. T. McDowell, a Winchester citizen, blocked that game. He bid a little more than par and agreed to pay cash for all the bonds.

We doubt if there is another city in Kentucky who can duplicate that performance.

Good Way To Do Business.

In ordering a 50c bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at 25 cents, W. S. Lloyd is giving one of the greatest trade chances ever offered to the people of Mt. Sterling.

If food does not digest well, if there is gas or pain in the stomach, if the tongue is coated and the breath bad, if there is constipation and straining, Dr. Howard's specific will cure you. If it does not, you have druggist W. S. Lloyd's personal guarantee to return your money.

This remarkable remedy comes in the form of tiny granules, and can be carried in the vest pocket or purse. It is very popular in New York City, and it is not very unusual to see someone after a meal at one of the large hotels or restaurants take a dose of this specific, knowing that it will prevent the uncomfortable feeling which frequently follows a hearty meal.

COOK HAD BECOME

Much Wonderment at Social Manners Meeting Before the New Member Explained.

It was almost the unanimous opinion at the Social Manners meeting that it was impossible to keep a cook more than a month without changing. However, the president, "If any person present knows of an exceptional case let her speak." At this the New Member timidly arose in their midst. "The exception is in my house," she said.

This caused the others to sit up. "How long have you had your cook?" quizzed the president. "Over five years."

For a moment the others stared in amazement; then heads began to bob in admiration and more heads began to swing sideways in vigorous distrust of this statement.

"Is this cook entirely satisfactory as a cook?"

"My husband thinks not, but she stays."

"How do you manage to keep her, then?"

"Because she won't go." "This explanation which escaped from the president's mouth was flashed like magic through the meeting until it became a huge wave." The president regarded the New Member with half pity, half scorn.

"New Member," said she, the next morning, "instead of advancing a case in which a long-sought solution might have been found, you expose yourself as being worse off than any of our sisters. You show that by allowing this cook to stay over the month you have enabled the mental to strain and hold an assembly over you and your husband—just the thing this society has so long fought against! No doubt you rue this day, New Member."

"I do not," she replied, bridling through the sniffs and tart instructions that scrutinized about her, "for in my house I am the cook!"

Devotion to Sarah.

That matinee girls in an exaggerated form are not specialties of this country is evidenced by the following from a Paris paper:

"They were a bunch of about ten young girls, seated yesterday morning at breakfast on 56 Boulevard Pereire."

"Why? They were awaiting the return home of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt from a triumphal tour of the north of France, for which she had used an automobile for the first time."

"The girls knew very well that Mme. Bernhardt was to arrive yesterday, but—'at what time?' Having no precise information on that point, they had been mounting guard at nine in the morning before the home of their idol. Noon came—one o'clock—two—no automobile."

"But they were not discouraged. Rather than desert their post they decided to lunch right at the house on the bench."

"Two o'clock, three, four. At last there is the hunk of a born. The ten girls pick up ten bouquets and rush toward the approaching automobile."

"A red smile from Sarah is their reward, and they trip away, quite happy."

Holland Lives Up to Her Pictures. Holland is one of our country that looks like her pictures. There is no better use for the word quack than to apply it to Holland. The farmers really wear wooden shoes. The land really is diked. Black and white Holstein cattle really pervade the landscape. The men really wear blue jeans shirts outside their trousers as they work in the fields. On hundreds of heads of women in any crowd the silver hairnets, covered with lace net, really may be seen. The girls and women are really red-checked, without artificial coloring. The fields really are about with wild flowers and windmills really away their quaint, awkward arms in the wind. There is to sham, no pomp and splendor to fuss and feather in the country. One gets the impression of a rugged, ship-bating, simple, kind-hearted, happy, race in going through Holland. From William Allen White's Letter to the Emporia Gazette.

A Few Words to Fools.

There is a fool born every minute. So we are told, but there is also a great mortality among them. There are few active ones alive today that were last week, or next week, or there will be next Monday morning. It seems useless to say much to this class of people, but we do wish to make a few suggestions in the interest of those who are not fools, but friends and relatives of fools.

Unless you are expert boatman, do not take a boat out on the water and in no event unless you are able to control all those who are in it.

Do not try to see how deep you can dive nor how far you can swim into danger.

Do not try to see if your automobile can make 70 miles an hour, as guaranteed by the man from whom you bought it.

Do not show your buns out simply because the girl doesn't like you or because you can't pay your debts. Let others do the worrying.

A Good Excuse.

"He—Confound it! We've been sitting on wet paint." "He—Yes, dear, I know we have. But it is better to be sitting on wet paint than to be sitting on a wet cat." "He—Do not be angry, dearest. You had just begun to tell me that you loved me, and how could I interrupt you?"

WOMAN EASILY THE VICTOR

Amusing Comedy in a London Court.—Proner More Than Met His Match.

There was a rather amusing episode at London sessions recently. In the dock stood a short, young man, who skillfully questioned the witness, and then, eventually, a little woman, looking very meek, but shrewd with excitement, entered the box. In a few moments she answered the queries of counsel, but when the prisoner turned came the witness became increasingly emphatic in her responses, and louder and louder grew her answers, until she was positively shouting.

The prisoner turned his voice to accord with hers, and both were engaged in trying to drown each other's noisy sentences. Suddenly the man ceased, exclaiming: "Pshaw!" stuck his hands deep into his pockets, and promenade with long, stiff-legged strides around the dock.

"There!" he said, coming in a dead stop and glancing at the woman whose vehemence and volubility had gained for her a victory. "Pshaw! A woman can always speak longer than a man. Why you're as bad as the unfortunate and worse." With a hopeless shrug of the shoulders he hoped to escape, while the court laughed loudly—London Express.

COULDN'T HELP BUT BELIEVE

Suburbanite Had Ample Evidence of Truth Contained in the Occult.

"Do I believe in the occult? Sure, I do," said the suburbanite as he sat in his seat in the smoking car and filled his pipe. "I was just as great a skeptic as you are until a week ago. I was firmly convinced that such manipulation was a fake, that mind reading was pure guesswork, and that all alleged psychical phenomena could be attributed to natural causes. But now I'm willing to accept the entire propaganda. Nothing is too obscure for me to accept on blind faith. I've experienced a complete change of heart as they used to say in the old Methodist camp meetings."

"How did it come about?" "Well, my friend Buggins, who is really a bug on the occult, induced me to go to a seance with him the other afternoon, and he persuaded me to have a sitting. In spite of my non-belief he said 'I was a good subject, and I guess I was. The lady who was delivering the soul said to me I should have trouble with a stout dark woman. All the way out on the train that evening the idea haunted me. I couldn't get it out of my head.'"

"And, say, she was right. What happened? Why, when I got home, I found my wife against the fireplace, sitting in the chair, and she was crying. I believe in the occult. O.G. Light!"

Actor's Hard Task.

"About the hardest thing I ever did," said little James E. Ross, the "Skookums" of the New Yorks playing at the Lyceum. "Was to face the ten girls in the Jewish orphan asylum when I set out to entertain them. Cared-for and sheltered as they are, their condition so appealed to me that I don't know how I ever got through without breaking down."

Rosen had gone out to the asylum according to promise, the other afternoon, and he had a storm, and the children went wild over him. Afterward he spent an hour looking the place over and chumming with the nuns, who in his case wasn't so difficult, on account of his own size, or the lack of it.

"I asked one little girl a newcomer, how she liked the institution," he said, "and her answer was both funny and pathetic. 'We gets meals for breakfast,' she said. 'Sundays funny, doesn't it? Well, think it over, and see if you can't appreciate the little girl's gratitude for a new view of life. I can't tell you the things I can tell.'"

Decayed Families.

We have known Morley's who were entirely ignorant of the race from which they came. Sometimes it is far otherwise. The family of Conyers is a remarkable example. It ended in the last baronet, Sir Thomas, who died in 1810 without male issue. He would have passed away in the parish workhouse of Cheshire street had not Robert Surtees of Malmesbury, the historian of the County of Palestine in Durham, and other generous neighbors, intervened. To the last he was a few steps from the verge of the dignity of the house he represented, and for some time declined to receive assistance from his friends. Another remarkable case is that of Grenville. This family was noteworthy in the wars of the Caroline and yet as time passed sank so low that two of the members were at one time receiving parish relief, and one of them, evidently by some mistake which it is difficult to account for, was twice picked for high sheriff at the very time he was a pauper—Athenaeum.

Britain's Upper House.

Britain's House of Lords has now and has had in times past many new names. Some modern Englishmen call the "chamber of horrors" and the "lethal chamber." When William Pitt "fell upstairs," as Lord Chesterfield said, he had become Earl of Chatham. Chesterfield spoke of it as that "hospital of incurables." Chatham himself used to call it "the tapeworm." In allusion to its usual splendid uselessness.

COURTESY IN THE STREET CAR.

Something of a Reversal of the General Rule.

"Do you suppose that's an effect of the recent agitation of women's rights?" asked the man, indicating with a nod of his head a scene that was taking place in an "L" car in the homeward rush. His companion looked and saw a slender, handsomely groomed woman offer her seat to a young man who, in the crush, was standing in front of her and was carrying an armful of large, heavy books.

The young man looked rather embarrassed and bravely declined with a pleasant little smile, which was all he could accomplish in lieu of raising his hat with his heavily incumbered hands.

"Well, then," said the lady composedly, resuming her seat, "let me hold the books in my lap."

"That would certainly be kind, if you don't mind," consented the youth, relinquishing his load; and when the lady reached her station, leaving her seat to him, he thanked her for her thoughtfulness with fully as much gratitude as a woman would have expressed for a similar courtesy from a man—perhaps with more appreciation, the experience being more rare.

AT HARVARD FIFTY YEARS AGO.

N. S. Shafer Tells Us of the Life of a Senior.

He was a senior in Harvard college and had a well-deserved name for scholarship in the classics, as well as for a miscellaneous assortment of talents and knowledge. He was reputed to be the best player of the game of checkers in the country; knew the political history of the United States amazingly well; was learned in pugilism, having at his tongue's end the story of all the prize-fights of recent times; whilst he was the merriest little man I ever seen. I will recall my first morning with him, when, after going over the best of what I could and could not do, he asked me if I could box. I pleaded guilty to some knowledge of that ignoble art. At that time I had not learned of his interest in it, and thought that I would be lowered in his eyes by the confession. To my surprise, indeed to my horror, for I had a swordman's reputation for the business, he insisted on my having a bout with him at once.—N. S. Shafer's Autobiography, in the Atlantic.

Two Marks of Beauty.
Beautiful eyes and brows are, in one sense, a special gift of nature. Many a plain woman is redeemed by fine eyes, many a pretty face spoiled by red-rimmed, dull, lustreless eyes. But at the same time a great deal may be done to make even unpromising eyes clear and attractive, to render eyes which are only passably pretty really beautiful.

Attention to the general health will go far to make the eyes clear and bright and prevent fatigue, even when they are called upon to do a great deal of work.

Have you never noticed the dull eyes of a person afflicted with dyspepsia, the yellow tinge of overworked and neglected liver; the lustreless eyes of the woman who sleeps in an ill-ventilated room, who takes no exercise and spends all her spare time reading novels over the fire?

When It's a Nudge.

"The father" said the title of the young painter's picture, the first that he had ever shown. It hung, unnoticed, on the line.

"But," said his friend, "you have done nothing to draw a crowd!"

"I've done my best work," said the young painter.

"Fudge," was the retort. "Work draws, but there are better magnets. At the Paris exhibitions every artist, until he makes a name, uses some device to keep a crowd about his daisies. 'A painting like 'The Father' always, in Paris, has the model, very beautifully dressed, strolling idly back and forth near it. The resemblance between her and it is at once perceived. And the result is the greatest curiosity—an immense crowd—a tremendous hit."

To Save Horses from Fire.

When a horse is released from his stall during a fire, says a technical paper, the stall is the only place which he believes himself to be safe. A new patented device, which consists of a pipe running through the stall to the outside of the stable, is designed to cure this. In case of fire a turn of a handle brings a hose nozzle into position and a stream of water pours over the head and shoulders of the horse, which drives him into the gangway from which it becomes a comparatively easy matter to lead him into the street.

At One Shot.

"A sportsman of great imaginative gifts and fond of telling his exploits, related that at one shot he had brought down two partridges and a hare. His explanation was that although he had only hit one partridge the bird in falling had clutched at another partridge and brought that to the entanglement in its claws. 'But how about the hare?' he was asked. 'Oh!' was the calm reply, 'my gun kicked and knocked me backward and I fell on the hare as it ran past.'—The Sketch.

Kyer—Somebody promised to loan me $10 to-day and I've forgotten who it was.

An unusual interest was shown in the meeting on Monday night. Every member should endeavor to be present if in the city. By hearty sympathy and co-operation much can be accomplished for the upbuilding of the county and city. Government enumerators are to begin on the census next month. A movement is considered whereby a commercial club man will co-operate that a correct poll of our residents may be had.

The Holland Development Company of Amsterdam will build the entire system.

The Sense of Duty.

A sense of duty pursues us ever. It is omnipresent like the Deity. If we take to ourselves the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, duty performed or duty violated is still with us, for our happiness or our misery. If we say the darkness shall cover us, in the darkness as in the light our obligations are with us yet.—Daniel Webster.

How Girls Walk.

Between their short skirts and their smart pumps the feet of the average young woman are extremely conspicuous as just now, and passing glances at them reveal the fact that most girls and women do not know how to walk properly. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of them place the heel on the ground first, a trick that is not only unseemly, but extremely ungraceful.

East and West.

There is no longer any doubt, our Shanghai correspondent tells us, that the old order of thought which has guided the lives of countless millions in the Chinese empire through a long succession of centuries is passing away forever. The movement in favor of western education has become irresistible.—London Times.

No Mustaches in Alaska.

Mustaches are not worn by men exposed to the severity of an Alaskan winter. They wear full beards to protect the throat and face, but keep the upper lip clear shaven. The moisture from the breath congeals so quickly that a mustache becomes imbedded in a solid cake of ice, and the face is frozen in a short time.

PAPER CURRENCY NOT NEW

Paper Currency Not New—Ample Proof That It Was in Use Among Moguls Many Centuries Ago.

Paper money—properly guaranteed—is now generally recognized throughout the world as the most satisfactory and convenient form of currency. It is not, however, as very generally supposed, comparatively modern idea, according to a writer in Harpers Weekly.

The celebrated traveler, Marco Polo, of Venice was the first person to announce to Europe the existence of paper money in China under the Moguls. It was subsequently introduced by the Moguls into Persia, where their notes were called disou, or djau, a word evidently derived from the Chinese word schiao, signifying "a want of specie."

The fact of the Moguls having in China and Persia made use of paper money has induced the belief that they were the originators of it. But in the history of Tellinghskhan and of the Mongol dynasty in China, published in the year 1738, the author speaks of the suppression of the paper money, which was in use under the dynasty of the Great Songh, who reigned in China previous to the Moguls; and he also mentions a new species of notes which were substituted for the old in the year 1264.

The original financial speculation of the Chinese ministry to provide for the extraordinary expenditures of the state, which were exceeding the revenues, was in the year 119 B. C. At this period were introduced the phiphi or value in skins. These were small pieces of the skin of deer, which were kept in a pen within the palace walls. They were a Chinese square foot in size and were usually ornamented with painting and embroidery. The price of those skins was fixed at a sum equal to about $55.

What a Dollar Dog Can Do.

A man in a nearby city bought for his wife and child a year ago a dog, for which he paid a dollar. It was obviously nothing wonderful in the canine way—merely a mongrel, with the bulging strain of a bulldog. The owner was a man in humble circumstances, and the dog, in his modest dwelling, was the principal asset, aside from a few sticks of furniture.

The other night "Tom" was tied to a leg of the kitchen sink as usual, and the family went to bed. They were awakened by the dog at midnight scratching at his master's door. When his master came out to see what was the matter the dog, with a remnant of chewed rope hanging from his collar, whined and ran to the head of the stairway. The house was on fire, and shortly after woman and child and man and dog made their escape their poor dwelling was a mass of glowing embers.

The owner of the dog has been urged to part with him for a large cash consideration, but though he is penniless, he will part with the four-footed savior of his family; neither has the dog at any time had thoughts of leaving them for luxurious kennels.

Hens That Think.

If the average man were asked if hens had any memory, he would say "No," but he would be wrong according to the experiments of two German scientists. The plan they adopted was to gum 30 grains of rice on a piece of cardboard, and between them to place ten grains of loose corn. At first the hens, of course, ate the corn, but soon they learned to leave the rice alone, thus very clearly showing that they remembered the rice was stuck down.

A very remarkable point about the experiment was that the longer the time between the trials the better was the hens' memory. When the experiments were made consecutively in the same order, the hens forgot the rice was not worth touching; but when the experiments were made at intervals of an hour they learned the lesson at the third try, thus showing not only that they had memories, but that they thought the matter over in the intervals.

A Lobster That Sought Coin.

Senator Scott of West Virginia, who has a keen sense of the ludicrous, tells this one on a constituent residing in one of the backwoods counties:

"An old fellow who had been a member of one of our legislatures came up to shake hands with me one day in Wheeling. In the course of our talk I asked him if he were going to run for the legislature that fall. He shook his head emphatically. 'No, sirree,' I'm not a-going to run for office any more. There ain't a dollar to be made out of going to the legislature. What I'm er going to do is to pack my trunk and go down to Charleston and get in that legislature game going on down there when the legislature meets. That's war the coin."

RELIGIOUS

On Sunday the Foreign Missionary offering at the Christian Church was $102.
 The Sunday Schools of the Christian church in the Eighth District will hold a Convention in Winchester April 21 and 22. The District Convention of the Christian Women's Board of Missions will be held at the same time and place.

The meeting at the Methodist church continues during this week. The pastor and Brother Wyatt, of Camargo and Grassy Lick, being in charge. The meeting accomplished much in the quickening of the membership, and enlisting them for active service. About 50 have professed conversion or reclamation. The preaching of Brother Morrell and the song service led by Brother Ramsay were enjoyed by all, and have proved helpful to all. Two well attended street meetings have been held that did good. Other churches have given much help and inspiration to us, and received help and encouragement. Our large chorus choir was possible because of the willing help given us by the singers from all our churches, and we are grateful to them. The pastors have helped us, and we have tried to help them. All are cordially invited to be with us this week.

Special offer on tailor-made coats and pants, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. We offer to make your choice of 150 styles of cloth to your measure and to fit at $15. See window. Walsh Bros.

He was for some years manager of Estill Springs. He has large business interests. He is survived by his wife (Miss Carrie Hanson, of Paris), and son, in college in Massachusetts, and a daughter. The funeral service and burial were in Winchester on Tuesday afternoon.

EUBANK.—For many months Mr. John A. Eubank, of Kiddville, has been in declining health, yet able to attend to business much of the time. On Wednesday of last week he and family moved to Winchester. On Thursday afternoon, March 3, 1910, about 2 o'clock he died suddenly of heart failure, aged 69 years. Funeral service was conducted by Revs. Harding and McNeil and the burial was in the Winchester cemetery on Saturday morning. Mrs. Eubank died during the past year. Their children are: Mrs. Len Beall, of Mt. Sterling; W. W. and Porter Eubank, of this county; Mesdames Wm. Huls and Clayton Strode, Miss Effie and Albert Eubank, of Clark county.

ADAMS.—W. W. Adams died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Owen Carpenter, in Covington, on Saturday, March 5. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. He led an exemplary christian life, was a loving husband and father, a courteous and kind friend. He was one of 12 children, 10 brothers and 2 sisters; the oldest and only living is Mr. Robert Adams, now in his 92nd year, and he attended the burial. For nearly 30 years—during and since our college days, the Adams family have been dear friends of the writer, B. W. Trimble, who with his wife and sister, Miss Ella Trimble, attended the burial.

PICKRELL.—Many friends were surprised and grieved to hear that James M. Pickrell had died suddenly at his home near Winchester on Thursday afternoon, March 3, 1910, of acute indigestion. He was the picture of health, robust, energetic and enterprising, although for a few days slightly indisposed, but on the day of his death was busy closing the sale of his large farm, planning a dispersal sale, preparatory to removal to Louisville. He said to his wife that he was not feeling well. She gave him a glass of hot water and turned to the telephone to call a doctor; she heard the glass drop from his hand, and in a few seconds he was dead, without speaking. Mr. Pickrell was 49 years of age, the son of Henry Pickrell, deceased, was born in Fleming county. He married Miss Sue Richart, near Sharpsburg, 25 years ago, moved from Bath county to our city where he lived, erecting and owning the electric and ice plants. Nine years ago he moved to Clark county where he has been extensively interested in farming, coal mining, electricity and other enterprises. In the midst of an active and prosperous life he has been suddenly taken. He was a loving husband and father, a helpful friend, a public spirited citizen. The funeral service was held at the home on Saturday morning by Rev. Porter, of the Baptist Church. A special car attached to the 12:18 express brought the family and many friends from Winchester, and the burial service by Revs. Clark and Porter was in Macphelah. Other friends who attended the burial were W. R. Nunneley, wife and son, of Louisville; Mesdames C. W. Peters, Waller Allen and Mr. Jack Allen, of Sharpsburg; James Richart, of Owingsville; W. E. Cassidy and wife, of Lexington. Mr. Pickrell is survived by his wife, an only child Mrs. Wm. P. French, of Winchester, a brother, Frank Pickrell, of our city, and a sister, Mrs. J. W. SOCIAL EVENTS.

We understand that we are to have no more female card parties. By a unanimous vote the men have exclusive use of the cards. The revival did it.—Paintsville Herald.

So far as the moral quality of the act and the effect of the example are concerned we fail to see much difference between the playing by women for card cases, cut glass cases, etc., and the playing by men for cigars, drinks, money and other considerations. Much valuable time is wasted, which could be spent in conversation, readings, or social pastimes, void of real or fancied injurious tendencies. There is a social element in the make up of men and women which can be and should be developed and enjoyed without being perverted to evil. We do not expect to abuse people who do not view life as we do, but we will persuade them to choose the right.

Wise Rats.
 The depredation of rats in his chicken yard caused Harry A. Lehr of York, Pa., to spread rat poison beneath the floor of his chicken coop. Instead of eating the poison the rats removed it to different parts of the yard. The next morning it was eaten by the fowls, as a result of which Mr. Lehr's flock of chickens is largely decreased.

 The maharajah of Upal has a head-dress of gems which is valued at $250,000. It is worn only on state occasions. The front and crest of this part of the maharajah's regalia are formed by a mass of close-set diamonds, while a fringe of large drops of pure emeralds hangs over the forehead.

Life's Inevitable Companion.

RECLUSE A PROBLEM

ABNORMAL LOVE OF SOLITUDE
HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

All Classes of Society Included Among Those Peculiar Individuals Who Have Shut Themselves from Their Fellow Men.

The recluse is a human problem which has defied doctors and scientists alike. They can give no satisfactory reason why an otherwise sane person should shut himself up and refuse to mingle with his fellow men.

Only a few days ago an extraordinary story of self-banishment was revealed at an inquest held at Chamham. The central figure might have stepped out of the pages of Dickens.
for he was known by the curiously romantic nickname of "Walter All-Alone."

Twenty years ago Walter Tibbitts—to give him his real name—was a prosperous butcher. Then one morning he disappeared from his usual haunts, the business was sold and the streets of Chatham knew Walter Tibbitts no more.

For the rest of his life he lived in a miserable slum on the outskirts of the town—alone and silent. The little food he ate was delivered by a man who seldom saw Walter All-Alone and never conversed with him.

The cottage fell into a very bad state and Tibbitts' health broke down; but he strenuously refused medical aid and resolutely declined to enter the infirmary.

At the inquest it was stated that Walter All-Alone had condemned himself to this wretched existence by way of expiating some purely imaginary fault.

Henry Cavendish, the famous natural philosopher and chemist, was a recluse who astonished England.

A son of Lord Charles Cavendish and a nephew of the third duke of Devonshire, possessed of enormous wealth, the subject of universal admiration because of his scientific attainments, he preferred the solitude of his study and the company of his books to the pleasures society could offer him.

For many years he lived at Hampstead, in a large, roomy house, attended by a large staff of domestic servants, who, however, were strictly enjoined to keep out of his sight. If a domestic by the merest chance came into the presence of Cavendish, she was instantly dismissed.

Every morning the philosopher would leave a note on the hall table naming what he wanted for dinner.
No one saw him place the note there but, accustomed to the strange custom, the waiters, the most of them being prepared, and only the remains of the repast signified the presence of the master of the house.

The case of Cavendish, in 1810, has left behind him nearly $5,000,000, beside a lasting reputation as a scientist and writer on natural philosophy.

The case of Capt. Wilson contains every element of tragedy and pathos.
Educated at a great public school, he entered a crack cavalry regiment when only 20 years of age. Then followed a decade of popularity in London society.

Everything changed with the death of his supposed father. It was then revealed that Capt. Wilson was not the son of the man to whom he owed his splendid position; he was only a foundling. Though his foster-parent had left him his entire fortune, he resigned at once from the army and from his club, said farewell to all his friends and retired to an obscure village in the south of England.
By his will he disposed of $750,000—

Why He Ended Friend's Nap.

Speaking of the Friend who sat in the library box of the United States court with his hat on the other day, Attorney Francis B. Lee of Trenton told of a little incident that happened in connection with a good Quaker's acquaintance of his who lives Moorestown. One day the Quaker quester went to sleep in meeting.
The other worshippers were soft and did not disturb the worshippers, but finally the sleeper let out a few extra links and kicked up such a commotion that a kindly disposed Friend thought it the part of wisdom to awaken him.

"Friend Nathaniel," he whispered, poking the sleeper in the ribs, "I think there had better arouse thyself."

"What did thee say? What did thee say?" exclaimed Nathaniel, suddenly starting out of his slumber. "What is the matter?"

"Nothing, Nathaniel," replied the other, without even breaking into a smile, "only thee was snoring a little, and I was afraid that outsiders would think that the spirit had moved thee to a trombone solo instead of an expression of thy convictions."

Not What He Expected.

"Had a great surprise today."
"How was that?"
"My son pointed out the famous footnote—come to me."
"What surprised you in him?"
"Why, it was a man. I always thought it was an ambulance."

Truly Novel.

"I have tried to write something out of the ordinary in this novel."
"Well, my boy, I think you have succeeded—come to me."
"In what particular?"
"Your heroine acts at times as if she had sense."—Kansas City Journal

HERE IS THE PROOF

That the best body-building and strengthening tonic for

Delicate Children

—is—

Vinol

"My 9 year old daughter was weak, pale, and had no appetite. I gave her Vinol, and she began to gain weight at once. She gained rapidly in weight, color and strength."
—Mrs. W. H. GILMORE, Durand, Mich.

"My two children, who were puny and ailing, rapidly gained flesh and strength when I began to give them Vinol. I proved that Vinol is a splendid tonic for delicate children."
—Mrs. C. ALLEN, New Bedford, Mass.

Vinol builds up healthy flesh and makes thin little limbs round and plump. Children love to take it.

We return people's money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it. Try it, please.

ILLITERACY AND SCHOOL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN.

Record of Fifty States and Territories, Ranked
By Per Cent of Illiteracy in Native White Population Ten Years Old and Over.

The first thirteen States in the table below have less than 1 per cent of illiteracy. All but one of these have school suffrage for women.

The last twelve in the table have over 10 per cent of illiteracy—in this group is Kentucky. Not one of these States has school suffrage for women.

The States having no school suffrage for women are so marked. All the others have full or partial school suffrage for women.

Where Cats Are Welcome.

The god Ptah is said to be worshipped with ardor in Boston, where the cat is as much a part of the household as any of the members. The Egyptians seemed to think the cat very important to happiness, and Boston can see no good in that class of society that is talking about the cat as a breeder of disease and a destroyer of birds, and not to be tolerated.

Weasels Attacked Cow.

Maymakers on the farm of H. A. Sell, near Hanover, Pa., noticed a cow in "near-by meadow strangely jumping about and bellowing loudly. Upon investigation they were astonished to find that eight weasels had attacked her. After a hard fight the farmers succeeded in killing several of the bloodsuckers and scattering the remainder.

PRISON REFORM

Measures Pass—Our Senator Is Their Author.

Following a speech by Senator Claude M. Thomas, of Bourbon county, author of the three measures looking to prison reform in Kentucky, the House on Tuesday, March 1, passed Senate Bills 75 and 76, one providing for the repeal of the present parole law and enacting in its stead a parole law along more liberal lines, and the other providing for the conversion of one of the State prisons into a reformatory.

REPUBLICANS AID IN PASSAGE.

While explanation by Senator Thomas had much to do with their passage, J. W. Turner, Republican floor leader of the House, by getting all the Republicans into line for the measure, gave material aid.

THREE PRISON BILLS PASSED.

All three of Senator Thomas' prison reform bills have now passed the House and Senate, and Lieut.
Gov. Cox, as president of the Senate, signed the enrolled copy of the bill providing for an indeterminate sentence law.

SCHOOL BILL AND OTHER LEGISLATION.

State College and Normal Institutions Lose.

Looking to the elimination of politics from the public schools of Louisville, the Newcomb-Huffaker bill passed the lower branch of the General Assembly by 74 to 0 and is now ready to be signed by the Governor.

It provides for placing the public schools of Louisville in charge of a non-partisan commission of five members. The unusual feature in the matter is that those composing the present Louisville school board voted to oust themselves from office.

PROVISIONS OF THE MEASURE.

The bill provides that candidates shall make races under no party emblem, and the election shall be by secret ballot. The commission shall be elected from the city at large.

APPROPRIATION BILL LONES.

Appropriation for the State University and normal schools was defeated by 42 to 29.

ANIMAL MEASURE PASSES.

Of especial interest to dairymen is the bill that passed the House looking to prevention of the spread of communicable diseases among all domestic animals except hogs.
The bill was introduced by Z. T.
Coleman, of Carroll county, and contains a provision that when the authorities deem it necessary to destroy an animal for fear that it will spread disease the county shall pay the owner the appraised value of the animal. Another purpose of the bill is to let the quarantine placed upon Kentucky sheep by the medical authorities.

TWO APPROPRIATIONS PASS.

The bill appropriating $50,000 to beautify the Capitol grounds was passed, as was the bill appropriating $5,000 for a monument to Jefferson Davis.

BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS.

The bill providing for a bureau of vital statistics and appropriating $50,000 annually for the State Board of Health passed the House and had passed the Senate.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT MEASURE.

A measure which passed the House provides that a wife may testify against her husband in suit for divorce where cruelty or aversion are the grounds set forth.
The measure gives to the husband
the right to respond.

People Do Not Know How to Blow Noses.

Dr. J. A. Stucky, a prominent Lexington physician, delivered an interesting address to the members of the Wayne County Medical Association at Detroit, Mich., on February 22. Speaking to the subject "The Relation of Diseases of the Nose and Throat to the General Practitioner," Dr. Stucky told his fellow-physicians "many people do not even know how to blow their own noses properly. They jerk the nose one way and then another, as if it were a pump handle, and this often produces trouble. One or two forms of insanity owe their origin to nasal disorders."

The Lexington doctor's statements have created much comment if indeed they have not started a new method of diagnosis.

INDIGESTION

Relief in Five Minutes and Permanent Cure or Money Back.

When W. S. Lloyd states that he has a remedy that is guaranteed to cure any man or woman who suffers from food fermentation which causes belching, sour stomach, gas eructations, heartburn and that lump of lead feeling in the abdomen or money back what are the poor stomach sufferers in Mt. Sterling and vicinity going to do about it?

The name of this most remarkable stomach prescription is Mi-ona. Most people call them Mi-ona stomach tablets because they know that there is no remedy so good for indigestion or stomach disorders. Here is one opinion:

"I have been troubled with indigestion for more than a year. I bought one box of Mi-o-na and it cured me. Now I would not be without a box in the house for $50.00. It saves a lot of doctor bills when you can be cured for 50 cents."

"You can use my name if you want to."—Arthur Desloerquet, 6
Nichols St., Wakefield, Mass.
Nov. 7, 1909.
